The completion of our yearly inventory discloses lines of merchandise, broken lots, and odds and ends that must be closed out to make room for other goods. To insure a quick clearance, cost and value are not considered. Prices are slashed, cut in two, some are ridiculously low, but the values are there. Our loss is your gain. Our gain is in getting room for new goods.

ADMIRAL HAS CHANGED SHIPS

as the Tennessee and Washington are due to leave Bremerton on March 14 for Buenos Ayres, where they will join two warships from the Atlantic fleet to participate in the big Argentine celebration.

Likes the California.

Admiral Schree and Captain Benson are immensely pleased with their new quarters aboard the California, which are larger than those on the Tennessee. Captain Benson paid a tribute to the builders of the California, and other San Francisco-built warships, saying that the builders had spent much time in finishing the rooms and making them comfortable.

Have Taken Much Coal.

When the "Big Eight" finishes coaling, and adding to their supply that given to the cruisers Galveston and Denver, supply ship Glacier and the tug Troquois, the naval station piles will be depleted just 15,000 tons. This will leave the station with only 6000 tons on hand. The American ship Edward Sewall is expected in the near future from Norfolk with about 5500 tons, and other ships will follow, so that in the next four months the station coal piles may have about 25,000 tons again.

Use Quarantine Wharf Again.

In order to accommodate the navy the quarantine officials have given permission to Admiral Schree to use the quarantine wharf and the South Dakota will probably be shifted over. The Pennsylvania and Colorado are to be brought inside the harbor today from the outer anchorage and they will finish coaling on Monday.

String of Wirelasses.

When the fleet starts for San Francisco there will be a string of wire-less plants all along the 2000 mile route between Honolulu and the Coast. The Earline is on the way here from San Francisco, the Logan is now out two days from Honolulu, the cruisers Galveston and Denver are equipped with plants and by the time the "Big Eight" gets started the wireless string will be complete.

Prince of Good Fellows.

There are men of high rank in the navy whom civilians find it difficult to come in contact with, either for business or social pleasures. About nine-tenths of the time civilians feel that when they board a ship they may commit a breach of navy etiquette, not knowing just what it is, and when officials receive them in the cold, blooded way that the regulations sometimes requires, officers to act, the civilian has a desire to get back on the wharf. The quarter deck is a peculiar place, but Captain Benson, chief of staff for Rear-Admiral Schree, is an exception, not a rare exception, but an exception. His cordial greeting makes the plain civilian feel at his ease aboard, and the captain never fails in courtesy and making a civilian feel at home on board. Newspapers have found this to be so, and when a newspaperman is satisfied with his treatment aboard a warship it is a sure sign that he has met a good fellow.

MAUI BRAKEMAN IS KILLED BY ENGINE

Maui News.—Levi Alama was fatally injured Friday afternoon near the Wailuku depot. He was a brakeman on engine No. 4.

After the engine had taken water he threw the switch and then jumped safely onto the pilot to ride back and couple the cars, a distance of probably fifty feet.

There were no eye witnesses and it is supposed that while on the pilot he swung one foot down to the guard rail where it was caught. The engine was moving very slowly at the time, but as the man could not extricate his foot the cowcatcher broke the knee and lacerated the flesh of the thigh.

The injured man was taken to the hospital where every thing possible was done for him.

He was taken to his home in Kahului by his relatives. He died there in less than twenty-four hours after the accident.

A coroner's inquest was held Monday. The verdict of the jury was accidental death due to carelessness on the part of the deceased.

WHAT PRESS AGENTS SAY.

Orpheum Reopening.

The Orpheum will reopen on Monday evening with vaudeville and moving pictures. In addition to Dick Stead, the haritone singer who has made so favorable an impression with the public, there will be Miss Beattie Gahard, Australia's favorite serio comic, and Miss Ethel Leslie, who is heralded as a ballad singer of high ability.

With the arrival of the China from the Coast comes additional talent in the shape of Valere and Varno, who do a great bicycle riding act. Should the boat arrive in time this act will be added to the bill.

Owing to some of the Orpheum's performers being held in quarantine, the bill will be a little short and for that reason until further notice the prices will be 20 cents for all reserved seats and 10 cents for general admission.

Cometa, the Sioux.

This is the story of an Indian's constancy and it is picture proof of the constancy of the American aborigines that will be shown. The scenes are real and their grandeur cannot be magnified by word pictures. "The Call of the Heart," a love story, is prettily told and will interest the audience to the last. Few will guess its ending, but when it comes any one can see through it. There will be some comedies shown, among them "The Woman Hater," Miss Eva Alva will continue her great stunt for another week. Her dancing has proven a great card at the Empire, for she has won the admiration of the patrons of that establishment.

HARD TO HIDE.

Eliza Root, at the annual dinner of the International Young Men's Christian Association in New York last month, said that evil courses were more difficult to conceal than men generally believed.

"Take the case," said Mr. Root, with a smile, "of old John Bodewin, John was a lawyer's confidential clerk, and he had the pernicious habit of going to a neighboring saloon every morning at 11 and taking a small glass of whisky. He was not proud of this habit, hence, after the whisky, he always took a clove.

"But one morning it happened that there were no cloves on the bar, and John, having considered the matter, swallowed a small raw onion from the free lunch tray. That would destroy the tell-tale whisky odor, no doubt, as well as the clove had always done, and so thinking, he returned to his desk.

"It was a double deck. At 11 he and his employer sat face to face, John, on his return, was soon aware that his employer noticed something. The man's nostril quivered, he sniffed, and finally, with a grimace of disgust, he broke out:

"Look here, John, I've stood whisky and clove for nineteen years, but I draw the line at whisky and onion."

Here's Economy

If a business man wanted to send out a twenty line typewritten form letter to thirty-five hundred persons he would pay for it, including typist's charges, postage and addressing, more than $300.

And the results will probably not be better than he would secure through the insertion of a twenty line classified advertisement in the ADVERTISER at a cost of One Dollar.

That's the sort of economy that economizes.
